Re: Temporary apartment units

Dear Tom,

I have researched all the necessary documents in order to apply for a Change of Occupancy.

The Inspectional Services Department has deferred the draft application to the Boston Redevelopment Authority.

The reason for the deferral is that the original project was approved as a Chapter 121 A application.

The corporation (Charlesview, Inc.) was granted a 40 year charter in 1969 and any changes must be approved by the Boston Redevelopment Authority and not Inspectional Services.

The original documents were approved for approximately 200 new dwelling units (see page 15 attached.)

Please determine if you want me to proceed and file an application with the Boston Redevelopment Authority. I would prefer to work with your counsel but I can provide an attorney if you so decide.

I will continue to extend the current temporary Certificates of Occupancy until such time that a permanent certificate can be issued or denied.

Sincerely,
