

About the Faculty

JEREMIAH BATTLE Jr. is a National Consumer Law Center (NCLC) senior attorney, energy team member, author of NCLC's Credit Discrimination manual, and a contributing author to several NCLC publications including Consumer Credit Regulation, Collection Actions, Repossessions, Foreclosure Prevention Counseling, and Unfair and Deceptive Acts and Practices. Previously, he was a staff attorney with Northeast New Jersey Legal Services where he focused on predatory mortgage lending and public benefits cases affecting low income clients. Jeremiah also served as a Managing Attorney with New Jersey Protection and Advocacy (now Disability Rights New Jersey) where he concentrated on disability rights issues. He earned a B.A. with high honors from Rutgers University and a J.D. from Rutgers School of Law-Newark.

JENIFER BOSCO is a senior attorney at the National Consumer Law Center and is the managing attorney of the energy and utilities unit. She has advocated for low-income consumers in utility proceedings in several states, is a contributing author of NCLC's treatise, Access to Utility Service, and has worked on transportation electrification policy and competitive energy supply issues. Jen is a co-author of NCLC's Utilities Advocacy for Low-Income Households in Massachusetts, and is a co-author of two reports for Lawrence Berkeley National Laboratories, Advancing Equity in Utility Regulation (2021) and The Future of Transportation Electrification: Utility, Industry and Consumer Perspectives (2018). She co-wrote NCLC's Model Medical Debt Protection Act, and is a contributing author to NCLC's Collection Actions treatise.

(Photos at <https://www.nclc.org/people/jerry-battle/> and <https://www.nclc.org/people/jenifer-bosco/>)